NEWS REVIEW OF

Cruiser Bill Fight Nears the End: Supply Measures for Army and Navy.

BY EDWARD W. PICKARD

BROUGHT to time by threats of night sessions made by Secutor Hale, chalrman of the navat affairs committee, the senators opposing the fifteen cruiser bill abandoned their fillbuster tacties and consented to ilmitation of debate on the measure. This was to take effect at noon on February 4 and the prospect was that a vote would be reached by the middle of the week. If the pacifists succeed in attaching amendments to the house bill making necessary the appointment of a conference committee, there might be a final fillbuster against the conference report. One amendment was favored by President Coolidge-the elimination of the clause fixing dates for commencement of the construction of the croisers. It was made known at the White House that if the bill passed even without the time clause, the President will ask for an approprintion for an immediate start in the building program,

Representative Britten of Illinois. urging passage of the bill, said carly in the week that he was "sure the time limit will be pleasing to President-Elect Hoover." But that gentleman immediately telegraphed to Presipublic or private statement upon this question, and added: "As you know, I warmly support your views and you may so inform others if you wish to do so." This telegram was handed to Senator Hale, who read it to the senate, and at the same time he read a message from Paul V. McNutt, Da-Bonni commander of the American Legion, urging passage of the bill with the time clause, on behalf of the Renators Borah and Walsh both spoke in favor of elimination of the time clause, arguing that such action was proper as a preliminary to another disarmament proposal. Senstor Reed of Masouri, who retires to private life on March 4, delivered what will be one of his last specches, exercising his great powers of ridicule and surcosm against the parifiets and arguing strangly for preparedness.

RESPONDING to the appeals of Becretary of the Navy Wilbur. the appropriations committee of the ionse reported a naval sopply bill calling for approximately $251,000,000 and providing funds for the addition of 500 enlisted men to the posal establisherent. This would bring the navy personnel up to $1.500. The recomconductions of the budget being that. extended, the committee, in order to nake up the deficit, adsterd the decompletion of older ships and the transfer, of their erous to nower ser MOUSE tess than was appropriated for the correct fixed wear and $10 oxides less than the estimates submitted to Berntong William by the beads of the naval Lureaux

The War department supply bill which had been possed by the house was reported to the senate by its uppropriations committee with an addition of $3,000 ffst for purely fallitary activities, made to the $447,000,000 total of the house measure. Of the funds added by the senate committee. approximately $1,000,000 will go for the purchase of new too bing, pursuit and fraining planes for the air corps. William tor the National Guard maintecarry new construction and an in crease in the tation allowance and appropriately $100000 will be turned over to the organized reserves tither actude changes included the addition of two thems providing $41,two for forogo for 1,000 torses could by army off rise and $22,200 for the torehave of 600 additional target for the corners, regimers and accidery. Buth fleas were approved by the bodget, but test been stricken out by tization of the government, dwelt upon the extraordinary prosperity which the nation is enjoying, but warned the country that this can be continued only by the egercise of rigid economy in federal, state and local expenditures. While admitting that as a resuit of the expansion of the country federal expenditures show a tendency to rise, Mr. Coolidge warned that the greatest menace to continued prosperity now lies in the rapidly mounting costs of local and state governments. This heavy drain on the earnings of the people, he said, "Is a red flag warning us of the danger of depression and a repetition of the disaster that overtook the country in the closing days of 1920."

The President warmly defended his policy of drastic economy in federal expenditures, and was seconded in this by Director of the Budget Lord.

RECEIVING few political visitors and devoting part of each week to fishing. Herbert Hoover is having a fine time down in Florida. Most interesting of his callers last week was Al Smith, who was stopping in Coral Gables. With John J. Ruscob and W. F. Kenney, the recent Democratic standard bearer drove over to Belle Island and spent half an hour chatting with the man who defeated him. Later he said to the newspaper men: "I found Mr. Hoover very friendly and affable. We told each other some of the funny things that happened during the campaign to each of us, but did not talk of anything important. I can't go into that any more."

Thursday Mr. Hoover, still eaker to catch a salidsh, went to Long Key on the yacht Saunterer. Ills guests were Justice and Mrs. Harlan F. Stone, Terne Marshall of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. and Mr. and Mrs. Mark Bullivan.

Correspondents at Mami Beach now believe that Mr. Hoover has decided on his cabinet but will not announce his selections until immediately after lils impropriation. They are satisfied that neither Ambassador Morrow nor Ambassador Fletcher will be secretary of state. There was a report that that portfolio or the attorney generalship roight be offered to Thomas Nelson Perkins, the Boston lawyer who is one of the American alternates in the repmentions conference of experts. It was believed Mr. Hoover, wanted a New Englander in the cabinet.

Mr. Coolidge also was in Florida last week, but only for a brief period. Accompanied by Mrs. Coolidge and a few others, he ran down to Mountain Loke and on Friday delivered an address at the dedication of the bird nanctuary and singing tower estab-Helied by Falward W. Bok. After a dinner and brief rest at Mr. 19-k's have, the party returned to Washing ton, arriving Partirday exening.

tains, of which it owns a fair portion, is the Kingdom of Nepal. Often heard of, it is one of the native Asian states of which least is known.

With the exception of the British resident and a few European officials who live in the residency grounds at Khatmandu, the capital, no one is allowed to visit the country without a special permit issued by the durbar. When the pass or permit has been obtained, visitors are obliged to travel by one particular route and are not allowed to go beyond the valley of Khatmandu, a tract of country about fitteen miles wide by twenty miles long, surrounded by high mountains. It is this valley of about three hundred square miles that gives the country its name, for to the natives it is Nepal. In the valley are situated the modern capital of Khatmandu and the old and much more picturesque capitals of Patan and Bhatgaon. At some time in the remote past this valley was a take, and the vast accumulation of water must eventually have cut for itself an outlet through the barrier of mountains to the south. Gradually there was left hare the rich alluvial deposit now drained by three rivers—the Baghmuttl. Vishnumatti and Manchern.

Through winding, crowded, dirty streets, with wooden colonnades overhung by the balconics of old houses, one reaches the central square, on all sides of which buildings have been erected with the most picturesque irregularity, the finest among them being the Durbar hall, with its magnificent doorway of brick and embossed copper gilt, built in the reign of Bhupatindra Mall. This doorway is one of the finest pieces of work In Nepal and on it is depicted the whole symbolism of the Hindu and Buddhist religions.

Facing the doorway is the statue of Raja Bhupatindra Mall, an ex remely well executed figure in bronze, seated on a boldly designed pedestal of stone on a square pillar about 20 feet in height, with the royal umbrella rising above the figure. Close by is the Ujntpola Deval, or Temple of Five Hagis, which stands on five platforms up which a flight of stens leads to the entrance. This stairway is guarded by five enormous pairs of figures carved in stone, the lowest pair being two glant wrestlers; above them two elephants ten times og strong as the men; above two lions ten times as strong as the elephants; next, two dragons ten times as strong as the llons, and finally two

Preserving Music of Pacific Coast Indians

Every day the halig of the anthroology department of the University of California ring out with the low, plaintive music of the Indian tribes of the Pacific coast. One unacquainted with the proceedings might be led to think that a war dance was in proggress, but the fuel is that for many years the university innungement has been engaged in conjecting phonographic records on which are preserved the old-time songs and dance musly and dances of the indians of the Pacific slope. They have succeeded in recording some gems. For instance, it has heretofore been imposslide to get the inclines to render the 'Cry Dance" song, which is one sung by professional mourners at funerals. and those who are familiar with it regard it as unlacky to sing a death song when there is no death. The Lost Bear Cinh's Lament is a bad ballad in a minor key which tells the tale of a bewildered little bear stembling through the woods searching for Its mother. These records are gone over dally by one of the faculty who is endenvoring to fathom the system which was made use of in the composition.

Wood Cups and Bowls Once Highly Prized

The finer specimens belonged to the richer abbeys-thus, there was the Great maser at York, the Judga cup at Durham, and at St. Saviour's. Southwark, there was "a maser with s border and knop of sylver and gilt which was given to the church wardens to drink when they mete." These valuable wooden cups were sometimes ornamented by a rim of silver, but otherwise they were seldom decornted by more than a few low moldings or Incised lines. Their value and beauty lay in the graining of the wood, gencrally maple, and the old turners chose the part of the trunk where it divided off into branches so as to obtain the speckled bird's eye graining. By Tudor times pewter began to take the place of tree, though poorer folk confinued to use these wooden trenchers and bowls till much later, especially in the north of England and in Scot-

The Lead Dog

By GEORGE MARSH

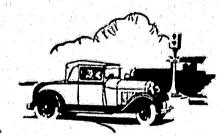

Here is a dog story that will match anything of the kind ever written., And it is not alone a dog story; it is a thrilling record of the adventurous life of the courageous men who hunt and trap in the far North. The reader is brought into contact with a new region, a brave and hardy breed of pioneers and with the remarkable dogs which are man's chief reliance in that country.

There are many reasons for the ease of steering the new Ford

THE new Ford is exception- the shaft and worm toally easy to steer because of the well - proportioned weight of the car, the steelspoke wheels, the co-ordinated design of springs and shock absorbers, the size and design of the steering wheel, and the simple mechanical construction of the steering gear.

The Ford steering gear is of the worm and sector type used on high-priced cars and is three-quarter irreversible.

In simple, non-technical language, this means that the car responds easily and aulckly to the steering wheel, yet there is no danger of the wheel being jerked from the hands of the driver by ruls or bumps in the road. A light touch guides the car. yet you always have that necessary feel-of-the-road so essential to good deiving.

Strength of materials and careful workmanship give unusual stability to the Ford trically welded together. This housing is then electrically welded to the steering column. Such a one-piece steel unit is naturally much sturdier than if several parts were used and bolted or riveted together,

Throughout, the new Ford steering mechanism is so simple in design and so carefully made that it requires practically no attention.

The only thing for you to do is to have the front steering spindles, spindle connecting rods, and drag link labricated every 500 miles and the steering gear lubricated every 2000 miles.

The TOWN DOCTOR

MANY TOWNS ARE SO CLOSE TO THE PICTURE THAT THEY CAN'T SEE THE PRAME,

The town that cannot be improved upon just Isn'tl . Yet in every community there are "acres of diamonds" that have nover been mined.

Mr. Newcomb Carlton, President of the Western Union Telegraph Compuny says: "The advantages of a community for both business and residence are often lost sight of by its natives. The very obviousness dulls their perception by becoming CONTEMPTUOUSLY FAMILIAR."

It is only natural that to that with which we are most familiar we pay the least attention. A stranger notices the growth of a child much more so than do its parents; early is no treat to a confectionery store clerk, and a rose in your own front yard is much more attractive to the man in the next block. The grass on the other side of the fence always looks the greenest; the other fellow's business appears to be a "snap"; some other town offers greater possibilities as long as you stand so close to the picture of your town, your community or your neighborhood that you cannot see the fullness

"Contemptuous familiarity" works both ways and therefore we have siekly cities, callous communities, tired towns, haggard hamlets, and hundreds of vanishing villages, the estizens of which go on about their daily tasks apparently totally unaware of their condition.

The old saying that "There's a little bit of bad in the best of us and a little bit of good in the worst of us." applies to towns and communities as well as to individuals.

What is GOOD about the community where you live! What is BAD? What is there that INVITES! What REPELS!

No town can be all good or all had, therefore, RECCENIZE that which is good, and capitalize on it recognize that which is had, and personally do something to eliminate it!

Dan't think that what YOF do wan't make any difference for it will! Everyhody doing something gets things done; sitting back "letting George do it" never gets ANTHING done. Your town is your business. Whoever you are-whatever you are- it's GOOD business on your part to'do every little thing you can to make your town and community a better place in which to live, work, play, and make money. It's POOR business to become oblivious. to anything that invites business or repels it.

YOU can't make money unless your neighbor does; you can't get an nerense in pay unless the firm does more business; the firm can't do more business unless the community grows -progresses with the times - and prospers. The community can do none of these things efficiently when "contemptuously familiar" with its advantages and disadvantages.

Clean Mouth Campaign

The astounding success of the Clean Mouth" campaign, which has been conducted in schools throughout the state for the past two years by the Maine Public Health Association, has surprised even the most optimistic members of Allenthat organization. Their surprise resalts from the fact that 1028 showed an increase of 150% over 1927 in the number of school rooms that won the "One Hundred Per Cent Certificate" offered to each class in which every Littlehala's. child has had necessary dental correcthe plan was begun, only five elgases in herthe entire state won the honor certificutos. Last year thirty-two were nourded. A similar increase was noted in the "Fifty Per Cent Certificateh" awarded when fifty per cent or more students have had all the necessary dental corrections. In 1927 thirty-five of these were given, whereas in 1928 this number jumped to 135.

The campaign was conducted as part of the Six Point Child" health program, also sponsored by the Association, in which each child examined by spent the day recently with his parents a doctor and found to be in good phy. at Milton. sical condition in regard to throat vision, hearing, weight, posture and teeth, was given a certificate attesting that fact. With his dog team he had started on the March crust to explore the nameless valleys beyond the last blue, hills for signs of fur; and until the tralls went soft in the April thaws. Gaspard and his brother had followed his father's trap-lines, confident of his safe return. But when the days of sled travel had passed, they knew that somewhere beyond the grim hills to the north, tragedy had overtaken the best bushman and hunter on the Starving-that a fate, unimagined, mysterious, had stricken the veteran who would not stary where carlbou ronmed the muskegs.

the Early Afternoon the Deeply Loaded Canoe Followed the Flat Coast.

Brock, "That was the trouble, I belleve. He got sick or hurt, and couldn't hunt."

"But don't forget, Ind, that one winter, twenty years ago, the rabbit plague and the disappearance of the caribon gave this river its name. Many of the Crees starved out, so the Company men sent to bulld this post the next summer called it Hungry House. You might get caught in a northernlose, on your trap-lines-"

"And get lost, you think?" broke in Brock, the blood showing in his brown face, as his frank eyes met his father's doubtful look.

"Well Konn, old girl!" he said to n snow-white female who greated him "Yes, and get lost-snowed up in no less eagerly than the slate-gray a big blow, far from your camp, withand white Flash. And the youth ny all he knows about the bush. He'd seized the gaping lower law of the be boss on this trip, and we're like brothers. It's time, too, I made something for myself, father.

Slowly the grey eyes of the elder McCain softened as his son begged for the chance to risk bis life in the hinterlands of the Yellow-Leg. At last he said, reluctantly: "It you'll promise to take the dogs and make for the coast and home when your grub gets low instead of trying to stick it out I'll consent."

"Good old dad!" Brock impulsively wrong his father's hand. So It was that early September found the two boys on their way to the wilderness of the Yellow-Leg.

CHAPTER II

On the Yellow-Leg Trail Through the early afternoon the deeply loaded came followed the flat coast. From the stern Gaspard, the better canceman, dessing his parrow blade with the Araightarmed lunge of the Cree, watered with fromming eses the Increasing blackness of the northern horizon

The sun was langing over the muskeg behind the spruce wyond the marshes when Garpard glanced into the north and about his head. "We better find camp ground be-

For a hour the paddles of the enhormen charmed the gray bay was fer as they reconnollered the flats nhead for a hospitable creek savath Into which they could run for stadios and he had not returned. That from the blog win h threatened them

"Loo"s as if we had a night in the bont allend of us," said Brock, as the stern-man sat down and silently tool up his paddling again.

"If she blow hard when de tide come in, de boat will fill," was the gloomy comment of the other. (in they traveled, searching for a way in to a dry camp ground on the marshes, but in valu, Then) as the tide turned, the wind rose, and the blonzed faces of the canoemen set gim with the knowledge that the filling of their bort on the flats meant the ubandomment of their winter on the Yellow-Leg. For without flour they dared not enter the unknown

Kneeling in the Low, treth clamped, the stubborness of his Seach ances try buttling all thought of fallure, timek drove his paddle with all the lendld power of his muscular arms and back. From the stern the sinewy Gaspard-taking them on the quarter eased the nose of the able bout through the short seas. But londed as they were, the stern-man realized that the rising wind would soon kick up a in which the heavily londed canoe would not live. It was a matter of clautes. Its decision was quickly n ide.

"Look out!" he erfed, "we turn in shore!" And burying his paddle, with the prompt aid of Brock he swung the Leaping into the water, desperate ath the fear of the loss of the preous ear , with a great heave Brock used the bow off the hummock bereath it, and with Gaspard pushing the stern, bended the lightened boat n over the flats where she grounded beyond the break of the waves.

"They're dry as a bone!" shouted Brock, reaching nider the heavy canvas to the flour bags. 'When't That war a close call i"

"Good t'ing de beach is flat here," eried Caspure "I tho't she fill for

"The fide's not half full yet, is it?" "No, we got to float de cano' in, as de tide rises. You look out for de boat and I go back to high ground and bulld a fire."

So, with the stern lashed to a pole to keep the bont from swinging, Brock carled up in the cause to wait for the tide to float her, while Gaspard went inland with kettle and trying pan, for the hours of tell since noon had left them desperately hungry.

It was not leng before Brock saw n light flicker, back on the marsh. Pis empty stomacl clamored for the ten and tried goost that Caspard was cooking. Then for a space, his tired body conquered blw and he dozed, to be wakened by the swinging of the canoe, ufloat, again, in the tide.

Tumbliot out or his water-tight sealskin boots Brack guided the craft through the shallows until she ugain grounded, and, lasting the boat to a of that master fisherman, the offer setting pole are started for the fire and his small brother, the mink, where he tra awalted him. As he crossed the parsh to the alder thicket which served as a partial windbreak for the are, a chorus of yelps challenged his approach.

"I'd sure like to run on up the coast and have a look at them, said Brock.

"No, we got big job ahead before de freeze-up, Brock." Then with a sweep of his puddle, Gaspard swung the bow inshore, "Here we go for de big hunt on de Yellow-Leg."

Day by day through the following week the cance bound for the unmapped headwaters of the Yellow-Leg bucked the strong current. Often they were compelled to get out the tracking line, and, walking the shore, tow the boat up through water too strong Blindly they drove the boat in for poles to push her. CHILD'S RECOVERY ALMOST

Julia Libby's Girl

Signs of Worms are: Constipation, deswollen upper lip, offensive breath, and full stom ach with pains, pale face, eyes heavy, short dry cough, grinding of the teeth, little red points on the tongue, starting during sleep with troublesomedreams, slew fever.

If this happened in your family you, too, would call it a miracle.

Mrs. Julis Libby, Goodyear Ave., Melrose (Mass.), writes: "Not long ago, when my youngest daughter was 3 years old, she was suddenly afflicted with a twitching of the mouth.

Finally, I happened to notice Dr. True's Elizir advertised. I gave her several doses which resulted in worms being expelled to the extent that in a remarkably short time her face re-turned to normal again and she has been in the best of health ever since. It is certainly a wonderful laxative and worm expeller, as it performed what seemed almost a miracle for me. I can't praise it too highly."
